Dear Partners in Catholic Education:

Happy National Catholic Schools Week!

On behalf of the Aquinas College community, thank you to the families, clergy, faculty, staff and volunteers of the Diocese of Grand Rapids for committing to the mission of a vibrant Catholic education.

The theme for National Catholic Schools Week, "Catholic Schools: Learn. Serve. Lead. Succeed." represents the ways in which Catholic school education can transform our youth. Your work both in and out of the classroom inspires children to become engaged, creative and compassionate members of our local community and beyond.

Aquinas College is blessed to be among the schools and parishes that serve and educate more than 6,600 students across the Diocese of Grand Rapids. We congratulate you on the groundbreaking for St. Robert Catholic School, which will be a new home for young minds and hearts to grow in service of others.

At Aquinas, we continue that same work in the form of faith and reason to prepare our students for professions, vocations and connections that will leave a positive imprint on the world. We are honored to be your Catholic college in the Diocese of Grand Rapids. We are grateful to partner with parishes and schools in providing students in our diocese with pre-k through masters level Catholic education and opportunities for lifelong learning.

I welcome all members of the Diocese of Grand Rapids to explore the Aquinas College campus, visit our chapel, Our Lady Seat of Wisdom, and experience our campus community.

Enjoy the Catholic Schools Week celebration!

Sincerely,

Kevin Quinn, Ph.D.
